

project funded by the Engineering and Physical Sciences Research Council, 'Understanding Walking and Cycling'. In this work, Dave is talking to many different people across 4 English cities (including Lancaster) about cycling, exploring how (if at all) they incorporate cycling into their lives, and moving with them as they make journeys by bike.

He'll summarize what he's found out so far, about the reasons different people cycle, the things which stop other people from cycling, and what needs to change to really get Britain on its bike. <http://thinkingaboutcycling.wordpress.com/>

We're all going on a ... cycling holiday

Wondering what to do and where to go for this year's holiday? Why not try a cycling holiday?

Following last year's very popular format, local people, young and old, who've particularly enjoyed a cycling holiday - in the UK or overseas, some travelling solo, others as a family, some pedaling gently along flat routes, others undertaking the challenge of a lifetime - will show their favourite photos and pass on their suggestions, energy and enthusiasm.

You'll go away with practical ideas, tips and advice on how to holiday successfully by bike. By the time you leave the Dukes, winter will seem a distant memory and you'll be raring to pedal off on your own cycling adventure.

Bike Film Festival 2010

The Dukes and Lancaster City Council's Cycling Team are proud to bring you another season of films, talks and events aimed at encouraging and celebrating cycling.

Events in the RAKE

Wednesday 14th April 9pm

Road to Roubaix

Directors David Deal and Dave Cooper, bring you a film that celebrates one of the most historically relevant races in the world. Rare interviews with current superstars, legends of the sport, mechanics, and fans lead the audience through the brutal, unpredictable landscape that elevates Paris-Roubaix to its epic status.

Director of photography Patrick Reis and his team masterfully capture the beauty of the region through stunning panoramic views and footage of the race, riders, and the infamous cobblestones which serve as the star of the film.

The film deftly weaves rare behind-the-scenes footage, interviews, and a collection of photographs that make Road To Roubaix an organic visual narrative that engages audiences from beginning to end. This is a rare look at Paris-Roubaix usually reserved for the sport's insiders. www.masterlinkfilms.com/

Break The Cycle

A film about downhill mountainbike lifestyle in Ireland

Break the Cycle is a super chilled-out action sports documentary showing how ten of Ireland's best downhill mountain bike riders use their bikes to break the cycle of every day life.

Break the Cycle gives an insight into the life of these Irish downhill mountain bikers, while also showing off the amazing scenery and trails Ireland has to offer. We have also teamed up with bands from Ireland and beyond to provide an amazing soundtrack, from the punk rock sounds of 'Rigger' to the chilled out vibes of 'The Frames'. <http://breakthecyclefilm.com/>
